UNITED FRONT TO DEFEAT THE LABORITES IN BRITAIN

(By Lloyd Allen)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, October 14.—Conservative and Liberal have united to defeat labor in the forthcoming general election.
Although no official admission of such an anti-Socialist compact could be obtained from spokesmen for either of the older parties, the purpose was evident today.
In many constituencies, either the Conservative or the Liberal candidate has withdrawn—clearing the way for a straight fight against labor, instead of a triangular contest which might end by giving the seat to the government party.
The two older parties will do their utmost to prevent re-election of Prime Minister MacDonald in his home constituency. The Conservatives have withdrawn their candidate, leaving the opposition field open to the Liberal nominee, whom they will support financially, although unofficially.
The Tories who withdrew their candidate at Paisley leaving Ex-Premier H. H. Asquith a straight fight against labor.
At Carnarvon, Lloyd George will be opposed only by the labor candidate, Prof. A. E. Zimmern.
In the west of Scotland there has been general agreement similar to the above.

Wales Unable To Resist The Lure of The Orchestra

CHICAGO, October 14.—(By the United Press)—Unable to resist the lure of the dance, the Prince of Wales delayed his departure from Chicago for Detroit three hours, pulling out at 3:30 a. m. today. The train is here in Detroit at noon.
The original plans called for departure shortly after midnight. At that hour the dancing at the Saddle and Club, which was the last of the party, was at its height and H. R. II. was loath to go.
He was gratified with some of the most beautiful dancers and young men in the city and when the hour of departure arrived, David Windsor said he would not leave off for anything and the dancing went on until the proverbial dawn.

Langley's Request For New Trial To Be Heard Today

MAYSVILLE, Ky., Oct. 14.—Arguments on the motions for new trials for John W. Langley, republican congressman from the tenth Kentucky district, and Milton Lipschutz, South Pittsburg, Tenn., liquor dealer, were at the top of the calendar in federal court here today before Judge A. M. J. Cochran, who in May sentenced Langley and Lipschutz to two years imprisonment for conspiracy to sell and transport liquor illegally.
The congressman and the liquor dealer were convicted by a jury in federal court in Covington and after sentence was passed filed motions for a new trial. They were released under bond pending the hearing. Langley's bond being fixed at $5,000.
M. E. Huth, of Alliance, Ohio, and Walter B. Carey of Canton, O., also were sentenced to like terms of imprisonment at the same time after they had pleaded their pleas of not guilty to conspiracy.
Lipschutz was accused of having brought unauthorized permits from Philadelphia to Lexington, Ky., in 1921, which were alleged to have been used for the withdrawal of 1,400 cases of whiskey from the Anderson distillery in October, 1921.
Congressman Langley since his conviction was given the republican nomination for re-election in the tenth district in the August primary.

ZR-3's Progress Slowed Up By Storm Over Atlantic

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(A. P.)—Overcoming a potential weather handicap, the dirigible ZR-3 was speeding along today at the rate of 75 miles an hour.
Maintenance of the same speed would bring her to Lakehurst early tomorrow. Before dawn today she was ploughing through a strong wind which was holding her up seriously the rate of her passage having dropped to more than 25 miles an hour.
Drawing Near To U. S. (By United Press)
Her wireless crackling out cheering messages that all aboard are well, at least three of her four motors were running rhythmically and speeding her towards her goal, the Zeppelin ZR-3 with four Americans and 25 German officers and men, was drawing near to the United States today.
Storms were brewing in the dirigible's path and a local tornado was reported by the U. S. Navy Weather Service at 3:00 a. m., but it was pointed out that the disturbance was moving northward and that the Zeppelin was expected to avoid trouble.
At 8 a. m. calculating the ZR-3's diminished speed—her Commander Dr. Eckener, had cut the airship down to 40 miles an hour.—The dirigible was approximately 1,000 miles from Bermuda.
She had some 1,700 miles yet to cruise before reaching Lakehurst, N. J. American warships were scurrying to positions whence they best could aid the ZR-3 with reports of weather conditions, which now are the only cause for concern. The United States Army Transport Henderson and the Cruiser Milwaukee, were two which "spoke" to the Zeppelin, after the North German Lloyd liner Stuttgart reported the airship's position.
Steady Stream Of Reports
Throughout the night and early morning the ZR-3's wireless kept up a steady stream of reports—something spluttering vainly for connections with land stations, sometimes ripping out a series of V's the wireless text letter. Always, the messages were signed with the letters Nerm, the Zeppelin's radio signature. And always, the cheery report, "All well."
The storm in the airship's path may speed her progress to Lakehurst rather than diminish it, according to navy men.
The Radio Corporation of America's huge wireless station at Chatham, Mass., was one in frequent touch with the ZR-3. Lakehurst was receiving many of its reports from the dirigible by way of this station.
When the local tornado was reported (Continued on Page Eleven)

PRINCE TO SEE "NICKEL-PLATED" FORD PUT TOGETHER IN A HURRY

DETROIT, MICH., October 14.—(By the Associated Press)
Assembling of a complete automobile at the Highland Park plant of the Ford Motor Company is one of the features planned for the visit of the Prince of Wales, who is scheduled to arrive at Highland Park, a suburb, shortly before noon today.
The automobile which will be known as the "Prince of Wales Special" will be assembled while the Prince looks on, and will be put together in an effort to break the present production record of the plant, which is 11 minutes and 40 seconds.
Men dressed in white, working with nickel-plated wrenches, chains and bars, will assemble the machine. None of the parts regularly used will be put into the car, all of the outside parts being enameled and all of the bolt-heads and trim being nickel-plated.
The Prince will be the guest of Henry Ford during his stay here.

La Follette Claims More Startling Evidence Of A Republican Slush Fund

(By Paul R. Mallon)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
ST. LOUIS MO., October 14.—(By the United Press)—Claiming discovery of "new and startling evidence," Robert M. La Follette today announced plans for presentation of his slush fund charges to the special senate investigating committee.
Frank P. Walsh, widely known labor attorney, has been selected by La Follette to conduct the case of the progressives. After a midnight conference aboard the Independent presidential candidates private car, Walsh left for Chicago where the investigating committee opens hearings next Friday.
Walsh claimed "indisputable proof of a documentary character."
"Some of the aspects of this case are even more sinister than anything that has gone before in the history of politics," Walsh stated. "Some of the evidence in my possession indicates a situation that would cause any citizen to tremble for the perpetuity of our institutions."
"However, we have an opportunity for a judicial hearing before an impartial committee composed of members of all parties. In my judgment the hearings before the Borah committee will vastly transcend in importance anything else that has happened, or can happen."

League Has Become Association of Nations To Protect Each Other From Attack Thru Threat of War

(By Frank H. Simonds)
(Copyright, 1924, By The Times Publishing Co.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., October 14.—(By the United Press)—The view of Senator Henri D'Almeida, the view of France toward the League of Nations and French estimates of the value of recent Geneva decisions are set forth with a clarity which deserves American as well as European attention. France, says the French senator in effect, will have no increase or reduction of her armed strength precisely as the member states of the league accept, reject or modify the provisions of the protocol recently adopted at Geneva. If other nations wish to see the armies of France reduced, let them sign the protocol.
Now what this means is fairly plain. France has for five years, indeed since the morrow of the armistice, sought to obtain security by some form of understanding between the nations which were allied against Germany during the war. She did not originally see in the League of Nations such security and accordingly she went outside the league and obtained the famous treaty of insurance, which fell with the refusal of the American senate to ratify it.
Offered Help From Smaller Nations
Thereupon France sought first a definite alliance with Great Britain and secondly separate alliances with a number of the European nations which like France had profited by the treaties of peace and were fearful of later attempts by Germany and her former allies to modify these treaties by war. France did not get the British alliance but she did obtain what she wanted after with the various European states, notably Belgium, Poland and the countries of the Little Entente.
With the coming of Herriot, however, the French government decided to seek security within the league, to adopt the league and to translate the covenant into a guarantee of security. Adopting (Continued on Page Eleven)

Found Dead In Bath Room; Was Prominent G. O. P. Leader

NEW YORK, October 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Secretary of War John E. Weeks issued a statement today concerning the death of Senator Brandegee in Washington in which he said, "I know that the reason for taking this rash step is due to personal financial troubles resulting from investments in real estate."
WASHINGTON, October 14.—(By the United Press)—Senator Frank Brandegee, Connecticut, Republican, was found dead in the bath room of his home here today on Rhode Island avenue, apparently a suicide.
Brandegee's body was found fully clothed in a sitting position on the bath room floor with a tube leading from a gas jet to his mouth and the gas turned on.
Discovery of the body was made by a doctor who responded to a call from the house at 9:40 a. m., presumably made by Brandegee's secretary, who is said to have been in the house at the time.
The coroner after an investigation, returned a verdict finding that the senator had committed suicide.
Brandegee has been reported in ill health for some time, but apart from a tendency to melancholia, close friends could advance no explanation of the tragedy. He was unmarried.
A note addressed to George Jones, his chauffeur, was found on one of the lower floors. It was dated yesterday: "Dear George," it read, "I enclose $100 for you and $100 for Emma and Rufus. I am up in the bath room on the top floor, near 17th street. The top floor above the one I sleep on. If you go to the top floor, beware of the gas." "Good-bye."
Attached to the envelope were two $100 bills. The note was written on senator stationery. The first two and the fourth sentences were written in black pencil; the third in red pencil. Emma and Rufus are personal servants of Brandegee.
After an investigation, the coroner issued a certificate of suicide.
The senator was born in New London, Conn., in 1804. He graduated from Yale in 1825, and was admitted to the bar in 1828. Entering politics, he was elected a representative to the 22nd general assembly in 1828, and rose to be speaker of the Connecticut house of representatives in 1829.
He went to congress in 1902 and served three terms.
In May, 1909, he was elected senator (Continued on Page Eleven)

Bandits Raid Poultry Men's Social Game; Make Haul

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—(U. P.)—Thirty members of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg Men's Association attending a convention here were seeking a little diversion in the room of the party last night, when three bandits using pistols as cards of admission, entered, fired the whole party in a huge pile and then departed with a sum estimated at between $10,000 and $15,000.
The robbery occurred in a fashionable hotel. Some time after the robbers departed, the victims managed to extricate themselves from the many yards of rope, and, coyly admitting "flinging the cubes around" gave their identities and the sums lost running from $125 to $500.
The victims included Horace Smith and Benjamin Ables, Waco, Texas; H. K. Bolcher, Temple, Texas; H. C. Keegan, Topeka, Kansas and Jack Collier and Harry Adams, San Antonio.
Before leaving, the bandits, leading the cries of distress from the Texas, left a total of $20 "fare back home."

Chafin was found guilty of having been a partner of Dennis Hatfield, one of the late "Devil Anse" in operation of the notorious road house, The Blue Goose, at Barnham, Logan county, Hatfield, who had served a prison term for his connection with The Blue Goose, was the government's star witness.

U. S. Floats German Loan In Few Minutes

NEW YORK, October 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Subscription books for America's $10,000,000 portion of the $200,000,000 German loan were opened at 10 o'clock this morning and closed twelve minutes later with an indicated heavy over-subscription.
So great was the demand for the German bonds that several large investment houses were compelled to decline to take any more subscriptions because their allotment of the loan had been sold.
The first sale of the new German bonds on the New York stock exchange was a lot of $5,000 at 94 3/8 or 2 3/8 above the offering price. The next sale was $50,000 worth at 94 1/4.
In the first 15 minutes of trading approximately $350,000 worth of the bonds changed hands on the New York stock exchange at prices ranging between 94 3/8 and 92 7/8 as against the offering price of 92.
This country's allotment totals $110,000,000. The rest of the bonds will be marketed in Great Britain and other participating nations almost simultaneously with the offering in this country. Simultaneously with the announcement by the Morgan syndicate that the bonds were ready, Mayor Hylan wrote his third letter to President Coolidge relative to the loan, again calling upon the president to inform the investing public whether or not the bond of the loan was the only means by which investors had of the ultimate collection of the monies. Asserting there were hints in the statements of the bankers indicating that arms might be used to collect the debt if necessary, Mayor Hylan questioned the readiness of the allies to go to war to collect American money for American investors and asked if our own armed forces would be used.
Another development in connection with the German loan was the announcement of the formation of a new corporation to be known as the American and Continental Corporation with an initial subscribed capital of $10,000,000 for the purpose of making American capital available for industrial enterprises in Europe.

Rioting And Looting Start In Shanghai

(By D. C. Bess)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SHANGHAI, October 14.—(By the United Press)—Rioting and looting have broken out in Shanghai and 1,000 soldiers of the defeated Chekiang army tried to rush the barrier at the French concession late this afternoon.
The troops were driven back by a French machine gun corps, without bloodshed but later they quarreled and battled amongst themselves and several were killed.
Disturbances of the sort most feared by Americans and foreigners since General Lu Hsiang-shan's death, made it an anxious day in the city.
The native districts were looted by Chekiang soldiers who poured into Shanghai ahead of the advancing Kuangsi forces.
Panicked Chinese business men are hurriedly raising money to pay expenses of the troops to their homes in the Chekiang Province, to get them out of the city.
The settlement boundaries and barriers defending thousands of Americans and foreigners were heavily guarded by marines and sailors from warships throughout the day.
Americans outside the settlement, have been advised to hurry within protection of the barriers.

Davis Seems Sure of Getting Missouri's Electoral Vote

Copyright, 1924, By The Times Publishing Company
ST. LOUIS, October 14.—Missouri has gotten back to "normalcy" so far as the Democratic party is concerned, while the Republicans are likely this year to find their vote abnormally disturbed with the consequence that John W. Davis is certain to carry the state.
Purities are difficult always to conjecture, but to place the figure at 15,000 to 20,000 is to make a conservative calculation, for there are possibilities for a 30,000 plurality for Davis.
The outstanding character of the situation is the defection of the German Republicans to La Follette. Not of the Germans, of course, will go for the third party candidate, but more than enough to make the Democratic victory assured. St. Louis, Missouri has many Germans and many which has many Germans and many (Continued on Page Eleven)

Vast Deposits Of Coal In Alaska

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 14.—Discovery of vast deposits of coal within the arctic circle in Alaska was reported by Dr. Philip S. Smith of Washington, D. C., geologist of the U. S. Geological Survey who returned here yesterday.
The foothills and great valleys, just north of the Endicott range, which forms the divide between the Yukon River and the Arctic Ocean, contains some of the greatest bodies of coal on the continent, said Dr. Smith.
Further proof that Alaska in past ages had a temperate if not a sub-tropical climate, in that region suitable for forming coal.
The country surveyed is included in the United States survey petroleum reserve number 4, which embraces a territory about the size of New York state.

Bachman's Band And Real Singer Make Hit at Columbia

Harold Bachman and his Million Dollar Band is back at the Columbia for another week's engagement. And in addition to the band, which is a big favorite here, it is accompanied by Miss Doris Doe, a contralto singer, who won the hearts of her audience almost instantly last night. She has a voice of exquisite range and richness and sings with ease and grace. She was compelled to respond to several encores last night, as she is a real artist in her line. There is a dash and quality to her voice and she is easily one of the most gifted contraltos heard in Portsmouth in a long time. She sang "Darling I Am Growing Old" as an encore and was accorded enthusiastic applause as she sings it not only well, but with much feeling and expression. Mr. Bachman is the same old capable leader, and if anything, his band is better than ever. Every number was heartily applauded last night and it looks like another record week for Manager Tynes' popular house. The combination of a genuine vocal artist and a real band orchestra is sure to pack the Columbia and send away thoroughly pleased audiences this week.

DAWES WARNS KENTUCKIANS NOT TO TAKE THE MIDDLE GROUND ON ISSUES

Dawes Special Enroute through Kentucky, Louisville, Ky., Oct. 14.—Democrats of Kentucky were warned today by Charles C. Dawes, republican vice-presidential nominee, against attempting to take "a middle ground" in the contest raised by the La Follette independent candidacy.

Such a warning first was voiced by Mr. Dawes in an address to a large audience here last night in the city armory. He reiterated it today as he set out on a day's campaigning with speeches at Shelbyville, Frankfort, Lexington and Covington.

"Look out citizens of Kentucky," was the way he phrased it. "There's no middle ground in this issue. Any party who has one conservative and one radical candidate standing between the lines is in 'no man's land' seeking to recruit from two battle lines."

"I recognize the patriotism and the loyalty to government of many of those in the Democratic party but in this campaign they will recruit from neither battle lines. They will endanger only their political existence unless they take their stand and stamp out this first attempt to array all those opposed to the existing order of things, against the American flag and the constitution of the United States as it stands."

It is above politics. It is an issue which goes into our hearts and into our consciences."

Wise Counselor was unable to start against Epinard in the $50,000 special at Latonia last Saturday, but previously defeated him.

CHICAGO, October 14.—(By the United Press)—Federal Judge George A. Carpenter today set the trial of Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former head of the U. S. Veterans Bureau, and J. W. Thompson, St. Louis contractor, for November 24.

Judge Carpenter refused to set the trial before election, alleging partisan feeling would "circumvent the course of justice."

"If a Republican jury were to try these men during a bitter political campaign, it might be disposed to be lenient," the court announced. Special Prosecutor James G. Potter, appointed by President Coolidge, had demanded that the trial date be set within ten days.

Forbes and Thompson pleaded not guilty to four indictments charging conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with veterans bureau contracts.

ANSWER—"In our daily practice we have demonstrated that Chiropractic is good for the baby, the child, the youth, the young man, the man in the prime of life and the man who is waiting for the last call. No matter what your age, your ill health is due to impingement of spinal nerves, somewhere along the course of your spine. Consult a competent Chiropractor. Have your spine thoroughly analyzed. If he tells you Chiropractic Adjustments will correct the impingement, heed his advice, take Adjustments regularly and GET WELL. If you have never taken Adjustments you will be surprised and more than gratified with results. Your age in itself should not deny you the happiness of good health. We urge you to—"

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Please tell me which state has the best schools, Ohio or Kentucky? And which state has the most work? And, Dolly, has Ohio got more people than Kentucky, and are they richer than Kentuckians?

—O. B. H.

While the state of Ohio is only about 412 square miles larger than Kentucky, it ranks fourth in population, while Kentucky is only fifteenth. Ohio has many institutions of higher learning, while Kentucky has only a half dozen or so. Manufacturing, mining and oil are the chief interests in Ohio. The value of all products in Ohio in 1919 was $5,100,308,728, from 16,735 establishments, employing 852,913 persons. The iron and steel ore and reduction and machinery industries lead all others. Kentucky is agriculturally very productive. Livestock interest is important. Kentucky horses having been for long world famed, its thoroughbreds not being equalled anywhere. Other domestic animals abound and fruits are extensive. Coal and petroleum are also important items. Manufacturing engaged in 1919 $276,535,306 of capital, and the output of its 3,057 establishments was valued at $395,000,417. The distinctive natural phenomenon is the 6,000 square miles in Central Kentucky, which is ribbed with underground passages and caves chief of which is the famous Mammoth Cave, with 160 miles of connecting passages.

Dear Dolly—I have always gone to my mother for advice, but now I am coming to you to give me your best advice. My questions are as follows: How should a girl act when going into a confectionery for refreshments with her beau? Who should she give her order to? Now, Dolly, please give me all the advice you can on these questions as I need it soon. I know that I should know this, but I don't, so I will sure appreciate your advice.

—DUMB-BELL.

There is nothing to do but walk into an ice cream parlor, and seat yourself at one of the small tables, and tell the waiter what you want. Your escort may do likewise.

Dear Dolly—Where could I apply for a position with the C. and O. Railway company? I would like to work for a railway company as a clerk, typist or anything of clerical work. Dolly, are they taking on any girls now?

—BETTY.

If you will mail an application for the kind of a position you want in your own handwriting to the offices of the C. and O., they will let you know if they need anyone.

Dear Dolly—I have a blue tricotlette silk dress and I would like to know what would be nice to trim it in. Would green messaline be all right?

—MIS. G. H. C.

It would look all right trimmed in white, green, gray, red or Mohawk.

Dear Dolly—Please tell me who won the World's series last year.

—WANT-TO-KNOW.

The New York Yankees won last year's series.

Dear Dolly—Will you tell me how to remove grease from wall paper? I have tried wall paper cleaner and soap and water, but neither will do any good.

—THAN KYOU.

A clean rag dipped in coal oil or gasoline is recommended for cleaning grease off wall paper. If you use this be sure there is no fire around. Another way is to scrape off the spot to be cleaned. Then pass a hot iron over it for a few seconds and with a perfectly clean rubber, rub off the clay. In most cases one application will be sufficient. If you can't get it off you can put a picture or calendar over it.

Dear Dolly—Will you please suggest something to do at a Halloween house party for married people. Also, please suggest what kind of refreshments to serve?

—WANT-TO-KNOW.

You might play the usual Halloween games, bobbing for apples, fortune telling and in doing spookier stunts. There are also many card games that you might play. Then there is music and dancing if your guests care for anything like that. Halloween refreshments include sweet cider, apples, doughnuts and pumpkin pie.

Finally found health in Kellogg's Bran after suffering long with constipation

Mr. Patch writes that Kellogg's Bran solved his problem. "I have suffered from constipation for years. It was mild and chronic for thousands of others. It has brought relief when all else has failed because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read Mr. Patch's letter:

Dear Sir: I have been a constant sufferer from constipation and have wondered what was the cause of it. I have tried all the cereals I could think of, and finally tried Kellogg's Bran. This solved my problem. I feel 100 per cent better and I owe it to your Bran. Thanking you very kindly for this great cereal, I am,

Very respectfully,
Chester C. Patch,
761 Main St., Greenwood, Conn.

For the permanent relief of constipation, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly.

Low tables of bran regularly in cases, with every meal. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestines. It rids them of the dangerous poisons that lead to other diseases. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumpled, is delicious with milk or cream. You will like its nut-like flavor—so different from ordinary, tasteless bran. Sprinkle it over the cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Eat it in Kellogg's Bran muffins, griddle cakes and many other wonderful recipes given on the package.

The Affair at Flower Acres

© 1924 by NLA Service Inc. CAROLYN WELLS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Malcolm Finley returns from Japan and goes to dinner with his friend Ezra Goddard, who proves to be a storehouse of information. Finley inquires about an old sweetheart, Nancy Raynor, who has become the wife of the wealthy Douglas Raynor and is living at Flower Acres, their Long Island home. Finley is incensed to learn that Raynor tyrannizes over Nancy. It appears that Orville Kent, Nancy's devoted brother, "pours oil on the troubled waters" and keeps Nancy from open revolt. Finley resolves to go to Flower Acres and view the situation with his own eyes, and, surprisingly, Raynor issues a cordial invitation to him. "When I see Nan," Finley tells Goddard, "dear little Nan, again—I shall have all I can do to hold myself in leash. But if that man is bothering her—"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I'm not sure I'll take you, Mal, if you talk like that. Don't stir up trouble will you?"

"I promise nothing. But I go."

And so he did.

The two friends went down to Flower Acres in Goddard's beautiful little roadster, preceded by a motor load of luggage and Goddard's man.

As they neared the place and the full meaning of its name burst upon him, Finley stared in delight at the scene. Literally acres of flowers, late blossoms now, spread over the earth, and among and between box or yew hedges, rows of poplars and clumps of evergreens were great beds of asters, cosmos, golden glow, chrysanthemums, salvias and late roses, while formal gardens showed more rare and choice blossoms.

"Who does it?" asked Finley, almost in a voice of awe, as one vista after another met his eyes.

"Nan," said Goddard briefly. "It's her hobby."

"Well, if the brute gives her full swing like this, he can't be all bad."

"Never said he was. Now, Malcolm, remember my warning! Don't be fool enough to disregard it. Do not flirt with Nancy Raynor, nor even seem to do so. I'm positive there's something behind this willingness of Raynor to have you here, and you must not let him have even an imaginary cause for jealousy."

"Oh, shut up, Goddard, what do you take me for? If you think I'm a disturber of families or a trouble-maker of any sort, you're greatly mistaken."

"I don't think you are—on purpose. But—"

"Well, shut up, anyway. If, when and as you see me going wrong it will be time enough to tell me lectures—as if I were a callow school-boy."

Pausing before entering, Finley turned to look at the picture. From the terrace, one first glanced over more flower acres, then some woodland of low growths, then a great stretch of uneven beach, and finally a horizon of sea and sky.

It was so beautiful that Finley hoped in his heart his bedroom might face this way.

Yet when, a short time later, he presented himself to the family, already at tea on the western terrace, he found the outlook even more picturesque.

As he stepped to the western terrace, Finley saw first the face of Nancy Raynor. She looked at him over the cup of tea she was pouring, and if the cup shivered a little on its saucer, she instantly stilled it, and continued her occupation.

For that one startled glance of her dark eyes, that one little rattle of the cup on its saucer, had told volumes to the man seeking information.

"Floyd do you do, Malcolm?" she said, holding out her hand with a cordial yet detached air. "It is pleasant to meet again."

"Indeed it is," he said, warmly, then catching Goddard's significant glance, he checked his enthusiasm, and turned to greet the master of the house.

"Mr. Raynor?" he said with a slight interrogative inflection.

"You know it's Mr. Raynor," and his host touched his hand for a moment, "but the question mark? Have you forgotten me?"

"No, indeed," and for once Malcolm Finley was almost disconcerted. "But the beauty and charm of your place has gone to my head, and I'm not quite sure of anything."

"Oh—there is what has gone to your head, is it? The beauty of the place?"

Not only was the emphasis unmistakable, but a brief glance in the direction of his wife added meaning to the man's words.

"Yes, indeed," Finley went on lightly. "I've just come from Japan, but even there I saw no profusion of flowers that so charmed my senses as your garden here."

"Nor so such beautiful women as we have here?" Again the slight glance at Nancy, which was accomplished by merely moving his eyes and not his head.

Finley felt himself clenching his hands, and with all his power of control in force, he returned, "Japan is the land of beautiful women, if one cares for that type. Ah, Orville, old chap, how are you?"

Finley felt himself clenching his hands, and with all his power of control in force, he returned, "Japan is the land of beautiful women, if one cares for that type. Ah, Orville, old chap, how are you?"

He left Raynor and crossed the terrace to shake hands with Orville Kent, Nancy's brother, who greeted him with a smile.

"No, indeed," and for once Malcolm Finley had been away a long time.

"Two years. You look just the same. Or, in fact, I find little changed except the traffic laws."

"Prohibition?"

"Oh, well, that's liquor traffic law—and, too—it is very much changed."

"Miss Raynor," Orville said, as he turned to an alert-eyed lady, who was quite evidently impatient for an introduction, "I want you to know Malcolm Finley—an old friend of ours, just back from Japan."

"How wonderful!" she exclaimed. "You must tell me all about it. Will you, Mr. Finley? All about the kleckshaws, or whatever they are—and the cherry-blossom carnivals and everything."

"Surely I will, if you want to hear it."

"But not now," Orville interrupted, seeing that the good-natured Finley was willing to begin at once. "Let's go for a stroll, Malcolm. I'll show you the swans on the lake."

This sun parlor was an ideal room. Three sides and a roof of glass, with convenient curtains and lattices, it was always available for occupation or for idleness.

On the fourth side, against the house, was a wide stone fireplace and a door opening into the rear hall. The appointments included reading tables, writing desks, card tables and tempting swings and lounges of ease and comfort.

Out here the family often had their coffee and smoked after dinner, and Malcolm Finley following the others was fighting a strong temptation to seat himself near his hostess. He had sat at her right hand at dinner, and their conversation, though of the lightest, had been intensely listened to—Finley couldn't help noticing—by Douglas Raynor, and also by his sister, Miss Mattie.

Noted Bible Teacher Coming to U. B. Church

Dr. E. J. Pace, a Bible teacher of national renown and an earnest and scholarly advocate of the "Fundamentals of the Christian Faith" is scheduled to conduct a two week's campaign of Bible study and evangelism at the First United Brethren Church, corner Seventh and Gay streets, beginning Sunday October 19th and continuing until the second of November.

Great preparation has been made by the membership of the First United Brethren congregation during the past month and this will culminate during the coming week when "Sacrifice Prayer Services" will be conducted at the church every morning at nine o'clock. Every evening beginning at six thirty "Flying Squadron Prayer Bands" will leave the church in automobiles to visit the homes of the membership of the church and also of those enrolled in the Sunday School. The program is "A tap at the door, a word of greeting, a stanza of a familiar hymn, a verse of appropriate scripture, and a prayer with a parting benediction." It is planned to visit some three or four hundred homes in this manner during the week. It is the desire to stimulate a great interest in the meeting through the use of this plan.

While the First United Brethren church is taking the leadership in this campaign the other United Brethren churches of the city and county will offer close cooperation. A. O. Wright of Ironton, a great admirer of Dr. Pace is planning to bring large delegations from his church during the campaign, and it is likely that the churches in Chillicothe, Wellston and Jackson will send delegations to hear Dr. Pace. Members of sister denominations in the city will find a hearty welcome when their attendance will not interfere with the work and worship of their own churches.

Dr. Pace is a graduate of Oberlin University and the Kennedy School of Missions, and was for ten years associated with United Brethren Mission work in the Philippine Islands. He has since taken post graduate work at Princeton University.

Charles S. Shinkle, who was arrested in Dayton, O., where he is employed by the Delco Light company, and brought here to answer to a charge of abandoning his three minor children, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in municipal court Monday. After hearing his story, during which he explained he had been out of work, Judge Sprague released him on his own condition that he pay $35 at once and continue to pay at the rate of $12 a week.

Frank Elliott, 25, charged with keeping a gambling place and Howard Morrow, colored, and T. H. Davis and M. Walters, white, charged with gambling, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in municipal court Monday and after hearing their stories Judge Sprague continued the case for further evidence.

The defendants were arrested by the police Sunday morning when they visited the Elliott home to make a search for liquor. The officers said they found the men about a table and seized cards, checks and money in a box. The men denied having gambled.

Why This Woman Made the INDICAN Test and Banished Constipation

Miss Sanger felt that she was just dragged all the time from the pains of constipation. Her doctor told her to make the Indican Test, which she did at once, and she is today happily free of her bowel troubles.

Miss C. Sanger of 520 W. 14th St., New York, freed her body from Indican. Note clear skin.

Beware of INDICAN

Indican is the danger sign which shows that the poisons of constipation are seeping through your joints into every muscle and every cell. This is what causes many diseases, such as rheumatism, neuritis, eczema, etc.

Can You Stand the Indican Test?

Have urinalysis made and if the doctor reports the presence of Indican, or if you can "feel" how poisoned you are by cause of bad stomach, pale complexion, headache, indigestion, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, as prescribed. If according to directions, now have another test made and see how the Indican disappears.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are a purely vegetable preparation that not only "cures" the stomach, liver and bowels safely but helps to drive out the Indican as well.

"PERHAPS IT WASN'T A GOOD THING FOR YOU TO COME."

Feeling that the whole situation was fraught with an undercurrent of danger, Finley, after an instant's hesitation, agreed, and the two went off.

"I'm glad you came down here," Kent began, soon after they left the house. "You may be able to cheer things up a bit. We're in dreadful dumps, somehow."

"What about? Servants leaving?" Finley asked, uncertain what line to pursue.

"No. But Douglas is getting so queer."

"Mentally, morally or physically?"

"Oh, every way. He's fiendish to Nan."

"What?" and Finley's sharp tone made Orville turn and stare at him.

"Oh," he said, and then fell into a silence.

After a moment he resumed. "I say, perhaps it wasn't a good thing for you to come, either. I see you still care for her."

"Look here, Orville, cut that out. It's nobody's business whether I care for anybody or not. When you see anything in my conduct toward your sister that calls for criticism, come and tell me so. Until then, I must ask you to refrain from even thinking about it."

"All right, old fellow. I understand. And so I'll tell you how I see it. Douglas is hateful to Nan, but it's partly her own fault."

"I don't believe it!" This burst involuntarily from Finley, and quickly, in order to cover it, he said, "I mean, I can't think Nan would do anything deserving of Raynor's censure."

"Censure? Oh, no. That isn't it. But she's never of the same mind with him—never sees things as he does—never really agrees with him. Yet she pretends to. And that, to a man like Raynor, who can't be deceived by anybody, is unbearable."

"And just what can I do about it?"

"Oh, nothing definite. Of course not. But I thought maybe your being here for a time would divert the current, shift the cards about, and give us all a new angle on things."

"You expect an unusual effect from a mere casual guest?"

"Don't take it so seriously. I don't expect anything. But if you could just influence Nan a little to be more lenient to Douglas's ways, or rather to his intent to Douglas's ways, or rather to his opinions and convictions that differ from her own. That's the trouble. They never see things alike."

"But, my dear boy—I can't—I tell you, don't take it like that. I don't want you to do anything definite—only—oh, pshaw. I thought you'd understand."

"Same little old Orville! Petulant, impatient and unreasonable. Well, son, I'll do this: I'll look about a bit, and if I can get the part of guide, philosopher and friend to your sister, you can just bet I'll do it!"

CHAPTER II

Why Did She Marry Him?

The house at Flower Acres faced north. On the western side a terrace and on the eastern side a veranda ran the full length of the house, and from each opened a door into the sun parlor that spread across the southern front.

U. S. Will Not Tolerate Submission of Domestic Questions To Nations' League

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 14.—(By The A. P.)—American sentiment will not "tolerate" submission of domestic questions "to the determination of any group of powers," Secretary Hughes declared here last night in campaign address, answering criticisms by John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, of administration foreign policies.

Mr. Hughes did not mention the proposed League of Nations protocol by name, but he laid stress on the question of jurisdiction over domestic issues, which at the heart of Japan, occupied place in the recent discussions at Geneva. He has not previously referred to the Geneva developments, directly or indirectly, in any public address.

"Recently," the secretary said, "the question has been discussed of the appropriateness of investing a group of powers with the authority to deal with domestic questions arising under treaties which have limited their rights, but with questions within the competency of a nation as to which it has not limited its rights. The sentiment of this country, I repeat, would not tolerate the submission of such questions, which pertain to our own policy to the determination of any group of powers."

Would Reject Proposal

"It would not tolerate the making of an agreement for such submission. We would not be willing to enter any organization through which a group of powers would be in a position to intervene or attempt to determine our policies for us."

"We have favored, and do favor, the submission to arbitral or judicial tribunals of international questions, that is, the decision of questions arising under treaties, and under international law because these questions are to be resolved by principles which are commonly accepted. But when we are outside the domain of our treaties, and questions of international law, and are dealing with our domestic questions, we reserve to us the freedom to determine our own policies."

in humanitarian endeavors, we now have it and on a considerable scale. We are glad of that cooperation. As I have said, our faith of cooperation is suited to the fact."

Mr. Hughes led up to his declaration by saying that "if Mr. Davis' criticisms have any significance, or point to any definite line of policy, they mean that he would like to renew the controversy over the League."

"With the disastrous obsequy of the last Democratic administration," he continued, "Mr. Davis may be spoiling for a fight, but the Democratic party has taken away his ammunition and left him nothing but empty shells. Mr. Davis as an individual, has a full right to the League, but he has no such right as a Democratic candidate for President, for the Democratic party has taken a back track on that proposition. It has taken note of the sentiment of the country."

"We have said that the people of this country would never tolerate the submission to any power or group of powers of the determination of our domestic questions. If we are to cooperate without the sacrifice of our right to determine our own policies," Mr. Hughes referred also to what he termed the Democratic candidate's effort to belittle the "Washington conference," adding:

"If such there are those who say this or that, and without specifically making them their own, he gives them currency and apparent approval. Thus, Mr. Davis permits himself to say that 'the country asks whether the Washington treaties have bound us to a definite inferiority as compared with England.' If he has read the treaties, he should know that neither in letter nor in spirit have the Washington treaties bound us to inferiority with England. This sort of influence cannot avail. On the contrary, within the scope of the treaties, Great Britain for the first time agrees to naval equality."

"Mr. Davis refers to the appropriation by Congress of $6,500,000 for the elevation of guns on certain of our retained ships. He does not mention that this applies to ships which will be replaced within 10 or 12 years. He should know that in the vessels which will replace these ships we can have any elevation we please."

Sees Coolidge Victory

"He does not refer to the fact that the appropriation was made under the mistaken notion that the British had increased the elevation of their guns on their retained ships and that this report turned out to be inaccurate. The question is an important practical one to be considered on its merits and not one for partisan slurs on the conference treaties. If the leader of the Democratic party favors this appropriation it will be interesting no doubt, to his followers in Congress to know it."

Mr. Hughes said the dominating question at the close of the campaign was: "Shall the third party be permitted to prevent the election of President Coolidge?"

"All the indications point to the breakdown of the Democratic party," he declared. "It is still making its strident appeals, but they are impotent. The issue is not between President Coolidge and the Democratic candidate. The issue is President Coolidge or no election."

PRIEST PLACED ON THIRD TRIAL FOR SLAYING BROTHER

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 14.—Abbe Adolphe Delorme, Catholic priest, accused of murdering his half brother, Raoul Delorme, three years ago, went on trial today for the third time, the juries in the two previous trials failing to agree.

The priest, as usual, appeared the coolest of any one in the court room and seemed full of the confidence that carried him through the two previous hearings.

The selection of a jury was begun shortly before noon and it was expected 12 men would be secured before night. Young Delorme was found frozen on a lonely road near Montreal three years ago, but bullet wounds in the head were said to have been the real cause of death.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Investigation of the bribery scandal which resulted in the suspension from baseball of Cory Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell of the New York Giants, will be continued, Commissioner Landis said today before he left for Chicago.

"I have no intention of getting out of baseball and hope to witness at least three more world series," he added in denying a statement attributed to him in Washington to the effect that either he or Ban Johnson, would have to step off the diamond stage during the winter.

Sometimes I do chores and milk. I took the Vegetable Compound before and after my four-month-old baby was born, and it has always helped me wonderfully. ## Physicians Select Gallipolis as Next Meeting Place; Were Royally Entertained Here

Steps looking toward the organization of a Tri-State Medical Society were taken at a largely attended meeting of physicians in the Ninth District Medical Association held here Monday afternoon and evening with representative physicians in attendance from Huntington, Ashland, Catlettsburg and other Kentucky communities.

The physicians from across the river were invited to attend the Ninth District meeting yesterday so that preliminary action could be taken in the effort to form a tri-state organization.

While no definite action was taken yesterday, a committee composed of Dr. James G. Murfin, of this city and Dr. T. W. Moore, of Huntington, was named to lay the ground work for such an organization.

Dr. Murfin is president of Hempstead Academy, this city and Dr.

Moore is president of the Cabell County Medical Association. Before the close of the business session in the afternoon Gallipolis was selected as the place for the holding of the 1925 meeting. Gallipolis county had never entertained the Ninth District Association since it was organized a number of years ago. Dr. Charles E. Holzer, of the Holzer Hospital, that city, invited the association to meet in Gallipolis county next year and the invitation was accepted.

Local physicians last night reported yesterday's meeting one of the biggest and most successful ever held in the history of the Ninth District Association. The attendance at the session here was better than at any meeting ever held in the district. A splendid program had been arranged for the 1924 gathering and it was carried out to the letter. The various papers were on subjects that produced most interesting discussions.

The annual meeting opened at 2 o'clock with the session in the Hempstead Academy room, library building. Following the program for the afternoon a business session was held at which time the place for the next year's meeting was selected and steps taken for the forming of a tri-state society. The tri-state organization will be non-affiliated as far as the National Medical Society is concerned, but membership will be limited to members of the national organization.

Dr. W. F. Marting, of Ironton offered the motion which started the wheels of the proposed organization moving on to what physicians of the tri-state region hope to be a splendid success. Dr. Marting declared that the area represented by the tri-state region includes an approximate population of 300,000 people, with a ratio of about one physician to every thousand inhabitants. The entire Ninth District Medical association, of which Portsmouth and Scioto county is a part, Cabell county, West Virginia and Boyd county, Kentucky, will be in the proposed tri-state organization, as will adjacent territories. One proposal which is being contemplated by the committee in charge of organization, includes territory as far as, including Charleston, W. Va. Two suggestions were made for names for the new organization, one "The Tri-State Medical Society," and the other an alteration of the word Kenova to read "Kenowve Medical Society." The committee has full power to act in the matter of choosing a name.

Enjoy Banquet
At 5:30 o'clock the physicians adjourned to the Masonic banquet hall, where the Eastern Star served dinner. During this part of the program music was furnished by Miss Alice Blake's orchestra and the Opheus Male Quartet.

Traffic Officer Praises Ka-di-ok

Well Known Traffic Policeman Is Relieved of Stomach Disorders by Herbal Remedy.

OFFICER H. M. BEHELER

"Yes, Sir, I'm all right now," smiled officer H. M. Beheler, Traffic Policeman of Huntington, W. Va., as he talked to the Ka-di-ok representative recently and told of his happy experience with this remedy.

Officer Beheler, who lives at 1077 11th Ave., suffered from indigestion and other troubles that a disordered stomach bring about. He was nervous and run-down, and irritable at times without cause. All such ailments are usually traceable to faulty digestion or stimulation. Officer Beheler knew there was something radically wrong, but didn't know how to get at it. Then he heard of Ka-di-ok and decided to try it.

"Now," continued the traffic officer, "I'm myself again. I feel fine—sleep and eat well—and my nerves have settled down." Such gratifying experiences usually follow the use of this famous herbal remedy.

Throughout the country, people in all walks of life are enthusiastically endorsing Ka-di-ok for its merit in relieving disorders of the stomach, kidneys, and liver. Some results appear almost miraculous.

It is especially recommended for indigestion, rheumatism, loss of appetite, loss of weight, insomnia, auto-intoxication, weakness, nervousness, poor blood, or a run-down condition. Try a bottle of Ka-di-ok today.

Ka-di-ok may be obtained at all drug stores in Portsmouth. —Adv.

Harry F. Rapp, secretary of the Hempstead Academy, presided over the sessions yesterday. The officers of the Gallipolis Society will preside over the 1925 session.

JUST GIVE ME PEPGEN, SAYS RHODES AVE. WOMAN

The famous herbal medicine, Pepgen, which has had such success in Portsmouth in treating stomach, liver and kidney ailments is again endorsed by a well known local resident.

Mrs. James Cochran of 3829 Rhodes Avenue, whose husband is a well known employee of The Wheeling Steel Corporation, in a recent interview with the Portsmouth Scientist at Fisher & Streich's in part said:

"Just give me Pepgen when I am feeling bad. I know it will do me good. All last winter I was as nervous as a cat. The least bit of excitement would get me all upset. I would sometimes tremble all over, and was always having sick headaches."

"My stomach was weak, and without any warning I would have cramps and attacks of gas and bloating. Then I would be in misery. My heart would be going to jump out of me."

"This condition kept on getting worse. I doctored with all kinds of medicine, but did not get any relief. Then I heard of Pepgen and began to take it."

"This is the medicine for me, for I began to improve the day after I started taking it. Now I am strong and well again. I have gained in weight and feel perfectly splendid. You never saw anyone eat like I do, and don't have a bit of trouble with my stomach."

Pepgen may be obtained in Portsmouth only at Fisher & Streich's, Kelso Pharmacy, New Boston.—Advertisement.

OLD TIME SPANKINGS FOR SPROUTING FLAPPERS AND SHEIKS, SHE URGES

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—Less than one tenth of one per cent of the girls and boys of today try to be flappers and sheiks, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, national director of the Christian Citizenship W. C. T. U., declared last night in an address before the 31st annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society here.

"Girls who think they are flappers and try to flap with cigarettes and boys who act the sheik with a pocket flask ought to be taken in a woodshed and given a good old fashioned spanking," she declared. "The modern style in dress of girls is a benefit to their health and grace, but the youth movement goes too far when it adds gin and tobacco to short skirts."

HE SUES FOR LOSS OF WIFE'S LOVE AND DOG

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14—Frank Morgan filed suit today for $10,000 damages for the alleged loss of his wife, Mary, and a pedigreed dog. George R. Wurtzler, railroad machinist, was made defendant.

Morgan alleged that Wurtzler "courted his wife with the result that she left him and refused longer to live with him."

Morgan averred that the loss of his wife is worth $10,000. He further alleges in his suit that Wurtzler took one "pedigreed dog and that the dog at the time of the taking was reasonably worth $250."

EUROPE GOING AHEAD UNDER REPARATIONS PLAN, COOLIDGE TOLD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Foreign affairs, particularly the relations between this country and Europe, and the Daves reparations plans, received the attention of President Coolidge at conferences today.

Europe is rapidly gaining ground and this will become more and more apparent as the reparations plans get under way, especially in Germany, the President was told by Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, and John Hays Hammond, who have just returned from visits to Europe.

While prosperity appears to abound in France, Mr. Hammond said, England was bothered still by unemployment in which there seems no probability of an immediate improvement. Germany, he predicted, would make rapid recovery under the operation of the reparations arrangements.

THE OCTAVE OF JEALOUSY

BY STACY AUMONIER

Illustrated By NORMAN BORCHARDT

One Touch of Envy Proves the Whole World Kin

A TRAMP came through a cutting by old Jerry Shindie's nursery, and crossing the stile, stepped into the glare of the white road. He carried an ash stick, and the rest of his worldly belongings in a spotted red and white handkerchief. He was hungry and he eyed, critically, the potential possibilities of a cottage standing back from the road. It was a shabby little three-roomed affair with gowls running in and out of the front door, some washing on a line, and the sound of a child crying within. While he was hesitating a farm laborer came through a gate to an adjoining field and walked toward the cottage. One hand balanced a scel fork across his shoulder. As he came up the tramp said:

"Where does this road lead to, mate?"

The laborer replied brusquely: "Pondhurst."

"How far?"

"Three and a half miles."

He walked stolidly across the road and entered the garden of the cottage. The tramp watched him enter the cottage, and he heard a woman's voice. He sighed and muttered into his stubby red beard: "Lucky devil!" Then, hunching his shoulders, he set out down the white road.

Having kicked some mud off his boots, the laborer, Martin Crosby, said to his wife:

"Dinner ready?"

She answered petulantly:

"No, it isn't. You'll have to wait another ten minutes, the 'aters aren't cooked. I've enough to do this morning I can tell yer, what with the washing, and Lizzie screaming with her teeth, and the biler going wrong."

"Ugh! There's allus somethin'." Martin went out into the garden and lighted his pipe. The fowls clucked round his feet and he kicked them away. He, too, was hungry. However, there would be food of a sort—in time. When you work in the open air all day you can eat anything. The sun was pleasant on his face, the sling pungent and comforting. If only old Emma weren't such a muddler! A good enough piece of goods when at her best, but no management. Lizzie—7 months old and 2 teeth through already. A lovely child, the image of what her mother must have been. Life wasn't so bad, really.

The gate clicked, and the tall figure of Ambrose Baines appeared. Tucked under his arm was a gun with its two barrels pointing at the ground. He was the gamekeeper to Sir Septimus Letter. He called out:

"Morin! Martin!"

Martin replied: "Morin!"

"I was just passin'. The missus says you can have a cockle or so of runner beans if you wants 'em. We've got more than enough, and I hear as yours is blighty."

"Oh!—ay, thank'ee."

"Middlin' hot today."

"Ay—terrible hot."

"When'll you be comin'?"

"I'll stroll over now. There's nowt to do. I'm waitin' dinner. I specks it'll be a half-hour or so."

He went inside, fetched a basket, and rejoined Baines in the road. They strolled through the cutting and got into the back of the gamekeeper's garden. Martin went along the row and filled his basket. Baines left him and went into his cottage. He could hear Mrs. Baines singing and washing up.

Of course they had their dinner. Mrs. Baines was a marvel. On one or two occasions Martin had entered their cottage. Everything was spick and span, and done on time. The two children always seemed to be clean and quiet. Mrs. Baines could cook, and she led the hymns at church—so they said. Even the garden was neat and trim, and fruitful. Mrs. Baines appeared at the door and called out:

"Morin! Mr. Crosby."

He replied gruffly: "Morin! Mrs. Baines."

"Middlin' hot."

"Ay—terrible hot."

She was not what you would call a pretty woman; but she was natty, competent, irrepressibly cheerful. She would make a shilling go as far

The tramp watched him enter the cottage, and he heard a woman's voice.

The maid went, and Mrs. Meads clucked: "Um—being a bit extravagant tonight, John."

"The laborer is worthy of his hire," quoted Mr. Meads sententiously. "Besides we had a good day today—done a lot of business. Pass the stout."

"I'm glad to hear it," replied Mrs. Meads. "It's about time things began to improve. Mrs. Wonnicoott was wearin' her biscuit-colored taffeta. She looked smart. Oh, and Mrs. Mounthead was there, too? No end of a swell she looked."

Mr. Meads's eyes lighted with a definite interest. Mrs. Mounthead was the wife of James Mounthead, the proprietor of that handsome hostelry, "The Dio Is Cast." When his long day's work was over Mr. Meads would not infrequently pop into "The Dio Is Cast." He swallowed half a glass of stout at a gulp.

"Oh, so she's got into it, too, has she?" he said.

"Yes, she's really quite pleasant. She told me that her husband has just bought Bolder's farm over at Pondhurst. He's setting up his son there who's marryin' Kate Steynin'. By the way, we haven't heard from Charlie for nearly three weeks."

Mr. Meads sighed. Everybody in the neighborhood knew that their son Charlie was up in London, and not doing himself or anybody else any good. And Edie must needs talk about old Mounthead's son—a promising, industrious fellow. Oh! and so James had bought him Bolder's farm, had he? Just bought it in the way that he, Sam Meads, might buy a gramophone or an umbrella.

"I don't want no fast," he said, on observing Edie begin to carve it.

"No tart!" she exclaimed. "Why, what's wrong?"

"Oh, I don't know," he replied. "Working too hard. I'll go out for a stroll after supper."

An hour later he was leaning against the bar of "The Dio Is Cast," drinking gin and water, and listening to Mr. Mounthead discourse on dogs. Other cronies drifted in. They were all friends of both Mr. Meads and Mr. Mounthead. Mrs. Mounthead seldom appeared in the bar, but there was a potman and a barmaid, and somewhere in the rear a cook, two housemaids, a scullerymaid, a boy for knives and boots, and an ostler. Mr. Mounthead also had his own farm well stocked with pigs, cattle and poultry. While taking his guests' money in a sleepy leisurely way, he dropped casually that he was engaging an overseer at four hundred a year to take his son's place.

"He doesn't know what work is, either," suddenly occurred to Mr. Meads. Mr. Mounthead only served in the shop as a kind of social relaxation. If he, Sam Meads, did not serve in his shop himself all day from early morning till late evening, goodness knows what would happen to the business. Besides—the pettiness of it all. People running up little accounts it was always hard to collect. But here—oh, the snappy quick profit. Everybody paying on the nail, served in a second, and what a profit! Walking home, a little dejected, he struck the road with his stick and muttered:

"Dad that man!"

Mrs. James Mounthead leant back luxuriously in the easy chair and yawned. James came fluffily up the stairs and opened the door.

"A nightcap, queenie?" he whizzed.

"Mrs. Mounthead smiled brightly. 'I think I will tonight, Jim.'"

He went to a cabinet and poured out two mixed drinks. He handed his wife one, and raising the other to his lips, said:

"Well, here's to the boy."

"Here's to James the Second," she replied, and drank deeply. Her eyes sparkling. A little drink easily affected Mrs. Mounthead. She became garrulous.

"I had a good time at the welfare, though some of the old cats didn't like me, I know. Ha, ha, what do I care? We could buy the whole lot if we wanted to, except perhaps the Wonnicootts. You should have seen old Mrs. Meads! Looked like a washerwoman on a Sunday. The vicar called me madam, and said he 'oped I often come. I gave a fiver to the fun. Ha, ha, ha. I didn't tell 'em that I made it backing 'Ringeross' for the Nunthead stakes yesterday. They'd have died."

During this verbal explosion James Mounthead thought to himself: "Um. It's a pity Queenie gives herself away sometimes." He wanted to talk about their success, but he didn't want to boast about wealth in quite that way. His father had been a small landed proprietor and a stock breeder; a man of stern, unrelenting principles. From his father he, James Mounthead, had inherited a kind of reverence for the ordered development of land and cattle, an innate respect for the sanctity of tradition, caste, property and fair dealing. His wife was the daughter of a publican at Pondhurst. As a girl she had served in the bar. When she had a little to drink—she was apt to display her worst side, James sighed.

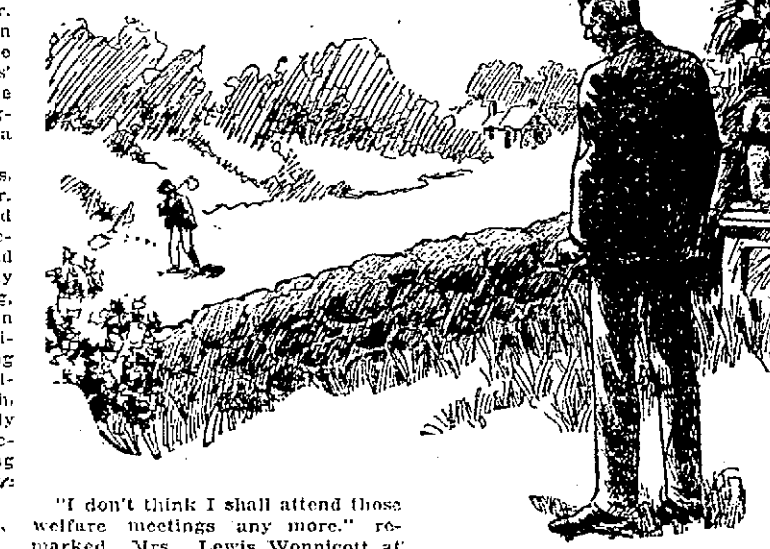

"Did Mrs. Wonnicoott say anything about her husband?" he asked, to change the subject.

"You bet she did. Tried to put it across us—when I told her about us buying 'Boulder's farm—said her old man had thought of bidding for it, but Sturge had neglected the place too long. I said: 'Yes, and praps it wouldn't be convenient to pay for it just now, after 'av'ing bought a lawn mower.' Ha, ha, ha. He, he, he. O my!"

"I shouldn't have said that," mumbled Mr. Mounthead. "Come on, let's go and turn in, old girl."

An hour later, James Mounthead was tossing restlessly between the sheets. Queenie, of course, had given herself away again to Mrs. Wonnicoott. He had probably as much money as Lewis Wonnicoott. If not more; but there the matter stopped. Wonnicoott was a gentleman; his wife a lady. Wonnicoott led the kind of life he would like to live—a gentleman farmer, with some sound vested interests; a man with a great knowledge of land, horses, finance, and politics.

James loved Queenie in a queer enduring kind of way, but he knew that he could never attain the goal of his vague ambitions, with her clinging to his heels. He thought of Lewis Wonnicoott; and his heart became bitter with envy.

"I don't think I shall attend those welfare meetings any more," remarked Mrs. Lewis Wonnicoott at the breakfast table. "They are getting such awful people in. That dreadful woman, the wife of Mount-head, the publican, has joined."

"Old Mounthead's all right—not a bad sort. He knows a gelding from a blood mare."

"That may be, but his wife is the limit. An awful vulgar person, boasts about the money her husband makes out of selling whisky."

"By gad! I bet he does, too. I wouldn't mind having a bit in his pub. Do you see Canadian Pacifics are still stagnant?"

"Lewis, you think about nothing but money!"

"Oh, come, my dear, I'm interested in a crowd of other things—things which I don't make money out of, too."

"For instance?"

"The land, the people who work on it, horses, cattle, game, the best way to do things for everybody. Besides, ain't I interested in the children? The two girls at Beddes? Young Ralph at Rugby?"

"I think you might bestir yourself to get amongst better people."

The girls will be leaving school soon and coming home. You spend all your time among horse-breeders and cattle-dealers, and people like Mounthead, and occasionally call on the Vicar, but who is there of any importance that we know?"

"Gad! What do you want? Do you want me to go and call at Crawshaw Park, and ask Sir Septimus and Lady Letter to come and make up a four at bridge?"

"Don't be absurd! You know quite well that the Letters are entirely inaccessible. He's not only an M. P. and owner of half the newspapers in the country, but a millionaire. But we don't even know the county."

"Who, for instance?"

"Well, the Burnabys. You met St. John Burnaby at the constitutional club two or three times. They're very nice people and neighbors. And they have three boys all in the twenties, and the girl Sheila—she's just a year younger than Ralph."

"Women are wonderful," muttered Lewis Wonnicoott, without raising his head. Mrs. Wonnicoott swept to the door. With her hand on the door-handle she said acidly:

"If you can spare half an hour from your grooms and pigs, I think you might at least do this to please me—call on Mrs. Burnaby today."

And she shut the door crisply.

"Oh, Jimmy-Pimmy!" muttered Mr. Wonnicoott. "Jimmy-Pimmy!" He stood up, and walked through the french window, down the steps to the sunk rose garden.

Once among the rose bushes he lighted his pipe. (His wife objected to smoking in the house.) Half buried amongst elms he could just see the five red gables of the Burnabys' capacious mansion.

"I can't do it," he thought, "I can't do it, and I shall have to do it."

He had been introduced to St. John Burnaby and had spoken to him once or twice. Burnaby had never given any evidence of wishing to follow up the acquaintance. Bit of a swell, Burnaby, connected with all sorts of people. Some said he had political ambitions, and meant to try for parliament at the next election. He had a son in the diplomatic service, a daughter married to a bishop. Over at the "Five Gables" they kept nine gardeners and twenty odd servants. Everything was done tip-top.

Lewis Wonnicoott turned and regarded his one old man gardener, trying the new mower. Poor Dorothy! Of course she did think of the children—no getting away from it. He hadn't accomplished all he ought to. Jimmy-Pimmy! It would be a squeeze to send Ralph up to Cambridge next year!

He looked across the valley at the five red gables among the elms, and sighed.

"Lucky devil!" he murmured. "Blast it all! I suppose I must go."

"You don't seem to realize the importance of it," said Gwendolen St. John Burnaby to her husband as they sat on the terrace. "There's Lal, wasting his talents at that wretched little embassy at Oporio, and all you've got to do is to drive three miles to Crawshaw park and put the matter before Sir Septimus."

"These things always seem so simple to women," answered Sir John, a little peevishly.

"Well, do you deny that he has the power?"

"Of course he has the power, my dear, but you may not realize the kind of life a man likes that lives. He deals in movements in which men are only pawns. If I told him about Lal he would make a note of it, and forget about it directly I turned my back."

Mrs. St. John Burnaby stamped her elegant Louis heels.

"Is nothing ever worth trying?"

"Don't be foolish, Gwen, haven't I tried? Letter knows I've backed his party for all I'm worth. When I get elected will be the moment. I shall then have a tiny atom of power. For a man without even a vote in parliament do you think Letter is going to waste his time?"

"Obstinate!" muttered Mrs. Burnaby. The little lines round the eyes and mouth of a face that had once been beautiful because accentuated in the clear sunlight. She knew that her husband was ambitious, but there was always just that little something he lacked, just that little special effort that might have landed him among the gods—or in the house of lords. He had made money—a hundred thousand or so—but he had not even attained a seat in parliament.

"The trees of Crawshaw park—he was only passing through them—a fugitive."

His heavy dark face be-tokened power and courage, but not vision.

At the approach of a butler, followed by a gentleman in a check suit and a white stock, Mrs. St. John Burnaby raised her eyebrows.

"One of these local people," she reflected.

On being announced the gentleman in the check suit exclaimed rapidly:

"Excuse the liberty I take—neighbors, don't you know, remember me at the Constitutional, Mr. Burnaby. Thought I would drop in and pay my respects."

St. John Burnaby nodded.

"Oh, yes, yes, quite. I remember, Mr. . . . Mr. . . ."

"Wonnicoott."

"Oh yes, of course. How do you do? My wife—Mr. Wonnicoott."

The wife and the Wonnicoott bowed to each other. Mr. Wonnicoott managed to say:

"We live over at Wimpstone, just across the valley. . . . my wife the girls are at school, boy's up at Rugby."

"Oh yes—really?" This was Mrs. Burnaby, who was thinking to herself:

"The man looks like a dog fancier."

"Very good school," said St. John Burnaby. "Hot today, isn't it?"

"Yes, it's exceedingly warm."

"Do you golf?"

"No, I don't golf. I ride a bit."

"You must excuse me," said Mrs. St. John Burnaby. "I have got to get a trunk call to London."

She fluttered into the house. St. John Burnaby was pre-occupied and monosyllabic and the visitor was relieved to make his escape. Walking down the drive he thought:

"It's no good. He dislikes me."

But St. John Burnaby was only thinking of Sir Septimus Letter, the big man he would have liked to be. He ground his teeth and clenched his fists:

"I will not appeal for young Lal," he muttered. "Let him fight his own battles."

Sir Septimus Letter stood in his cool library and conversed with his private secretary.

Sir Septimus was wearing what appeared to be a ready-made navy serge suit and a low collar. His sal-low face was heavily marked, the strangely restless eyes peered searchingly beneath dark brows. The face had power, but of the kind which has been mellowed by the friction of every human experience. It had alert intelligence, a penetrating absorption, above all things it indicated vision. The speech and the movements were incisive; the wiry body a compact tissue of nervous energy.

The secretary was saying: "The third reading of the nationalization of paper industries bill comes on at 5:30, sir. Bousham will be up, and I do not think you will be called till 7. You will however, wish to hear what he has to say."

"I know what he'll say. You can cut that out, Roberts. Get Libby to give me a prelate at 5:45."

"Very good, sir. Then there will be time after the Associated News Service board at 4 to see the minister with regard to this question of packing meetings in East Riding. Lord Lampreys has some information."

"Right. What line are Jennings and Castwell taking over this?"

"They're trying to sidetrack the issue. They have every unassociated newspaper in the north against you. 'H'm. I'm. Well, we've fought them before.'"

"Yes, sir. The pressure is going to be greater this time."

The great man's eyes sparkled. "Roberts, get through on the private wire to—Lambie; no, get through to all of them, and make it quite clear. This is not to be a party question—liberty of the subject and so on."

"Very good, sir. The car comes at 1:15. You are luncheon with Cranmer at Shorn Towers, the Canadian paper interests will be strongly represented there. I will be at Whitehall court at 3 with the dispatches. It would be advisable, if possible, to get Loeb of the finance committee. Oh, by the way, sir, I had to advise you from Loeb. They have received a cable report of the expert's opinion from Labrador. There are two distinct seams of coal on that land you bought in '07. A syndicate from Buffalo offer a million and a quarter dollars down."

"What do we pay?"

"One hundred and twenty thousand."

"Don't sell."

"Very good, sir."

"Have you seen my wife, lately?"

"I have not seen Lady Letter for some days, sir. I believe she is at Harrogate."

The great man sighed and drew out a cigarette case, opened it, and offered one to Roberts, who accepted it with an elegant gesture. Then he snapped it to and replaced it in his pocket.

"Damn it, Roberts, Reeves says I mustn't smoke."

"Oh, dear!—only a temporary disability I trust, sir."

"Everything is temporary, Roberts."

He walked abstractedly out of the room. A little ornate clock in the outer corridor indicated twenty minutes to one. The car was due at one-fifteen. Thirty-five minutes; oh, to escape for only that brief period! Through the glass doors he could see his sister talking to two men. He turned sharply, and went through a corridor leading out to the rear of the garage. He passed through a shrubbery, and came to a clearing, walked across it, and not amongst some trees. The trees of Crawshaw Park—his trees! He looked up at the towering oaks and elms. There were there years before he was born. They would be there years after his death. He was only passing through them—a fugitive.

As he stood there, he saw a tramp clamber down a bank, and stand hesitatingly in the middle of the road. In his hands he carried a red handkerchief containing his worldly belongings.

Sir Septimus observed him hest-with long swinging strides down the white road. These stirred within the breast of the millionaire a curious wishful longing. Oh, to be free! To be free! To walk across those hills without a care, without a responsibility. With a groan, Sir Septimus Letter muttered:

"Lucky devil! Lucky devil! Oh, God! If I could die."

George Bone McARTHUR, Oct. 14.—George Bone, aged about 52, died at his home near Kelly Branch Monday after a short illness from pneumonia.

Harriet E. Byers, probably the oldest woman resident of this city, died Sunday morning at 6:30 o'clock, October 12, 1924, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Orville H. Kesinger, of East Broadway, with whom she made her home the past fifteen years.

Mrs. Byers was a daughter of James and Sarah Dempsey, and was born 33 years ago in 1832 on what is now known as the Roy farm in Jackson county and notwithstanding her great age, until recently, she retained an unusual brightness of mind and would recall many matters of historical fact that told of the early settlements in this section which she in her girlhood visited.

GOOD ROADS BOOSTERS MEET

Good roads boosters from South Hill, Portsmouth and Fullerton filled the W. O. W. hall at South Portsmouth Monday night, when Robert Wilson, of Vanceburg, and E. C. Hunter, bridge engineer, of Kansas City, were the speakers.

Members of the South Portsmouth Fullerton community adopted a slogan to the effect that "their district would not lose five votes on the issue."

Here On Visit
Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Ewing of Cincinnati are visiting Portsmouth relatives and friends.

Many facts in connection with the proposed $75,000,000 good roads and better schools bond issue to be voted upon at the November election, and the benefits to be derived from a bridge over the Ohio river at this point were explained by the speakers. The meeting was held under the auspices of the South Portsmouth and Fullerton Good Roads Association.

Both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Hunter stated in detail the problems to be confronted and the necessity of securing the largest possible vote at the coming election. They further stated that the passing of the issue meant the completion of a hard surface road from Greenup to Vanceburg and from Fullerton up Tygart Creek to Olive Hill.

President Baker was later authorized to appoint two delegates to the convention the state organization to be held in Dayton, October 30. Mr. Selby gave a short, inspirational talk. Miss Beulah Rothwell, daughter of a Selby employee, gave several readings. Other entertainment included the usual group singing.

ARMY AND NOTRE DAME TEAMS CLASH SATURDAY ON THE POLO GROUNDS, N. Y.

NEW YORK, October 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—A capacity crowd of more than 50,000 is expected to witness the Army-Notre Dame polo game, Saturday, at the Polo Grounds, where one of the most spectacular of the intercollegiate series between the two rivals will be fought.

The cadets, although generally regarded as having a stronger team than the 1923 aggregation, since Harry Wilson has been added to the backfield, are not considered the game with the same overconfidence which was credited with hastening their 13-0 defeat by Notre Dame's flares last season.

The Blue comet, which went into the army contest last year fighting to live, mood in which a normal Rockne team is virtually unbeatable, will not have that advantage this week, but will meet an alert group of veteran stars who will be determined to cross the Notre Dame goal line—something which no army man has done during the last three years.

Army will outgrow Rockne's team, which will have an advantage in speed. The opposing backfields include many of the recognized stars of the country, but in the churning lines the cadets will have an edge over the Notre Dame forward wall, which has been partially rebuilt.

Harrisonville Wins

The North Moreland Stars lost to Harrisonville Sunday on the Harrisonville diamond 5 to 3. At the start it looked like an easy victory for North Moreland for the visitors put across three runs in the first inning on three hits. During the next eight innings only one visitor reached first base. But Pyle, star twirler had the visitors eating out of his hand most of the game. Shore, speed ball artist for N. M. was driven off the hill by the Harrisonville slugger. Ehlman essayed to enact the role of relief pitcher but he was given such a warm reception that Earl Schwamburgers sent in to check the Harrison township team.

Purdy, Pyle and Briker lined out three cushion shots and helped Harrisonville pile up a safe lead. A crowd, estimated at 500 witnessed the game.

St. Paul Beats Orioles; Win Series

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 14.—(By The A. P.)—Premier honors in the minor league baseball world rested today with St. Paul, achieving third victory today over Baltimore in the deciding game of the Junior world series.

Battling through the third straight triumph, the Saints humbled the International League champions, 6 to 3, giving them five victories to the Orioles four in the postseason fray.

Each team made nine hits but the splendid work on Howard Merritt, the Saint's slow curve southpaw, kept the Oriole hits scattered except in the seventh when they scored three runs on Maise's home run.

That was only a threat, however, for the American association titleholders had a five run lead at the time, and the damage had no serious effect, as Merritt held the Orioles runless in the last two innings.

Home runs by Charley Dessen and Leo Dixon in the early innings gave the Saints their second and third runs and proved a measure of comfort and a stimulus in the later innings when the Oriole menace was greatest.

Five of the "series" games were played at Baltimore, one of them the third—resulting in a 13-inning slugfest in which the Orioles won the first game 4 to 3, and Merritt shut out the Orioles in the second 6 to 0, allowing only three hits.

Winning the other two at Baltimore 6 to 4, and 10 to 1, the Orioles came to St. Paul to close the series, holding a three to one game lead. Here the Saints won the first, five to two, but when Baltimore took the second 4 to 0, needing only one game to win the title, the Saints seemed hopelessly out of it.

Bracing Saturday, however, the Saints won 3 to 2, made it two straight by winning yesterday, 9 to 1, and won out today with three straight. It was the first series in three-post season clashes with Baltimore in the past five years, that the Saints have won the championship.

The score: Baltimore . . . 000 000 300—3 0 0
St. Paul . . . 011 102 105—6 0 0
Thomas, Jackson, Earnshaw and Freitag; Merritt and Dixon.

To Limit Boxing Shows

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—Local boxing matches are to be restricted to one a month and popular admission prices will prevail. It was forecast today by City Director Barry, head of the boxing commission, who said he would bring resolutions to effect the changes at the Wednesday meeting of the commission.

Recent poor attendance was given as the reason for limiting bouts to one a month.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Professional bear traders succeeded in bringing about a sharp reaction in today's stock market despite the remarkable success attained by local bankers in the sale of America's portion of the $200,000,000 German loan. The rapidity of the decline resulted in heavy liquidation by frightened investors and the closing out of many weekly margined accounts. The closing was weak. Sales approximated 700,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Price movements lacked a definite trend at the opening of today's stock market. Woolworth, Dugout and Loose Wiles biscuit each dropped a point on initial sales and Baldwin advanced 1½. The first sale of U. S. Steel common was 1,000 shares at 107, unchanged.

Continued irregularity took place throughout the early trading despite the indicated heavy over-subscription of America's $100,000,000 portion of the 200 million German loan. Chief interest in the stock market centered in the specialties. National Security sold 6 points above its previous sale at 172, a new low. Youngstown Sheet and Tube advanced 2, Commercial Solvents 1½, and Sage Arms

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe dropped 2 points and General Electric 1½. The market turned heavy around the end of the first half hour. U. S. Steel sagging to 106½ and several other popular industrials and rails yielding to selling pressure. Foreign exchanges opened firm.

Disregarding current favorable business and credit conditions, the market continued to react throughout the forenoon. Prices in all sections fell back sharply as bear operations extended their activities perceiving that large interests were neglecting the market in their operations to insure the success of the German loan. Many speculative shares lost 1 to 3 points with steel, motor, tobacco, public utility and rail issues under heavy pressure.

American Water Works declined 2½ points and Woolworth, Baldwin, General Electric and Lackawanna two points or more. Sinclair Oil preferred dropped to 75, a new 1924 low. Call money renewed at 2½ per cent.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Corn steady; sympathy with wheat.
Cattle irregular.
Hogs mostly lower.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—In a general rush to buy, wheat started 2½ to 5 cents higher today and steadied at about four cents above Saturday's finish. The upturn was due largely to previous advances which had taken place at Liverpool and Winnipeg, while trading here was halted owing to a holiday. Liberal export business sold to aggregate 3,000,000 bushels was also a strengthening factor, and so too was news of unfavorable weather in Argentina and in Canada. After opening at 1.45 to 1.46, December and 1.50 to 1.52½, the market continued active but extreme gains failed to hold.

The close was unsettled, 2½ to 4½ cents higher, December 1.51½ to 1.54½ and May 1.51½ to 1.54½. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. Corn opening prices, which ranged from 1½ to 1½ higher, December 1.12 to 1.12½, were followed by a slight further advance. Oats started 3½ to 4½ up, December 53½ to 54c and kept within the initial limits.

Provisions were upheld by the action in grain.
The close was nervous ¼ to ¾ cent higher, December 1.12½ to 1.12½.

WHAT THEY SAY BACK HOME

UNDER the editorial head: "The People Will Win If They Elect Harry Sheets," the Circleville Democrat and Watchman has the following fine words for a former citizen, but who has been a resident of Scioto county for a number of years and is now a candidate for sheriff:

"We notice in the Portsmouth Daily Times that our former townsman and ex-sheriff, Harry S. Sheets, is the Democratic nominee for sheriff of Scioto county."

"The Times gives him a very commendable write-up, especially referring to his record as an officer, both as chief of police of Circleville and sheriff of Pickaway county."

"We are very glad to have the opportunity to add something to what The Times has said of his past record by saying that the official service he gave, both to Circleville, as its chief of police, and to Pickaway county, as its sheriff, was fearlessly and impartially administered, and that if the people of Scioto county are looking for a sheriff who will enforce all laws, without fear or favor, and at the same time, a man who stands four-square to the world in all his relations with his fellow citizens, that man may be found in the person of Harry S. Sheets."

"His record for law enforcement and that of apprehending criminals, is well and favorably known here, and his many friends will await with interest, the verdict of the voters of Scioto county on November 4th."

NEED SLIGHT EXCUSE

PITY the poor Republican organs for the extremities to which they are driven these days, in order to print something nice about Coolidge.

See the jubilant shouts of them, Friday, when it was revealed that in a speech, made quite awhile back, Senator Borah had a word of praise for Cautious Cal, because he had tried to do something in the way of governmental economy and had made the declaration he was against the creation of any more bureaus.

Borah admits the soft impeachment, but tosses it aside as of no consequence, and not one word further has he to say in praise of the candidate from Massachusetts.

And perhaps, he has more than one reason why. Borah is a shrewd lawyer, with special gift to detect pleadings and the like. So it may be he noted that while Coolidge declares himself against the creation of bureaus, he has come out for more commissions, and that is a distinction without any difference.

THE HIGH COST OF DISHONOR

THE Giants have lost the world's base ball championship, and thereby hangs a tale with a moral.

They are a better team than the Washingtons, but they entered the supreme contest with an awful handicap, a cloud of disgrace hanging over them and almost unanimous public disfavor.

Immediately before the series began they were the victims of a disgusting scandal. One of their players admitted he had tried, at the suggestion of other players, he claimed, to bribe the most brilliant member of another team to throw a game to the Giants and thus make them a sure winner of the championship of their own league. This player was himself a tower of strength to the club in batting. His absence through banishment from the sport was a tremendous blow in itself. Coupled with the humiliation it heaped upon his fellow players and the indignation of the public, it heaped into disaster.

Not even the unrivaled strategy and nerve of their peerless leader, Manager McGraw, could put back into the team the old time pep that would have carried them surely to victory. Of a truth, McGraw himself seemed to be stunned by the disgraceful episode and at no time was he as vitalizing as of yore.

THE THIRD CONGRESSMAN FROM CINCINNATI

It's better to live 'em and leave 'em than just stick around and deceive 'em.
But women are queer.
And I'll tell you right here, either method is certain to peeve 'em.

Within Bounds
While making a visit to New country origin, was knocked down in the street by an automobile. A crowd instantly surrounded him with condolences and questions.
"Are you hurt, my friend?" kindly asked a gentleman, who was first among the rescuers, as he helped the stranger to his feet and brushed the mud and dust from his clothes.
"Well," came the cautious reply of one evidently given to non-committal brevity of speech, "it ain't done me no good."

Got It In the Neck
"Why," said Smith, "you don't know what hard luck is. I have always had it. When I was a kid there was such a lot of us in the family that there had to be three tables at meal times, and I always sat at the third one."
"What's hard about that?" snapped his friend.
"Why," replied Smith, "it was fifteen years before I knew that a chicken had anything but a neck."

Cause for Dismay
Amanda Joskin, wife of the latest Negro in South Carolina, was discovered by a neighbor fanning her husband as he laid on his bed.
"Am Sam sick?" ventured the caller.
"Not 'sackly," replied Mandy in a whisper. "He 'je' needs exercise."
"Dat ain' no exercise fo' him."
"Sh-h, woman. De on'y exercise he gits ain' walkin' in his sleep, an' he ain' walked fo' two nights."

Safe Sport
Guest: "Does anyone get to kiss the bride?"
Groom: "No, you cowards! You've had your chances!"

CHICAGO TO PLAY INDIANA ON SATURDAY
CHICAGO, October 14.—With the scalp of the Brown Bears securely under his belt, and with the disgrace of the defeat by Missouri wiped out, Coach Alonzo Stagg still had his troubles this week as the Maroons started drilling for the Indiana game. Stagg wants to use Captain Gowdy at tackle, but until he can find a reliable center he must alternate his star line-up between the two positions.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. G. BENTLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—New York now exceeds London in population by more than a million. Yet it has never struck me that the stranger gets so much of the idea of bigness in either city as he does in Chicago or Boston.

If the streets of New York were linked in a continuous highway, they would reach to Los Angeles with 600 miles over. I believe the bigness of the metropolis is emphasized in inconsequential things more than in the towering skyscrapers.

For instance, it was necessary recently for a man to inspect every hotel room in town. It took him 14 days, working eight hours a day. There are 150 hotels in the White Light, District alone and 275,000 visitors are daily housed in the 1,500 hotels.

New York gives one the idea of crowds but never of space. The average population per acre is 545. London is second with 475. The combined population of Delaware, Nevada, Wyoming and Arizona could be seated in New York theaters daily and there would be 100,000 vacant chairs.

The food supply staggers imagination. The meat provisions daily amount to 250,000 pounds and 120,000 eggs are eaten. The city's milk supply is 1,500 freight cars every day. The milk consumption daily totals 380,000 quarts.

Eight hundred million gallons of water are used in 24 hours and there are 267,307,000 gallons of water contained in the storage reservoirs. Seventeen persons are born every hour. Eighteen persons are married and eight die every hour.

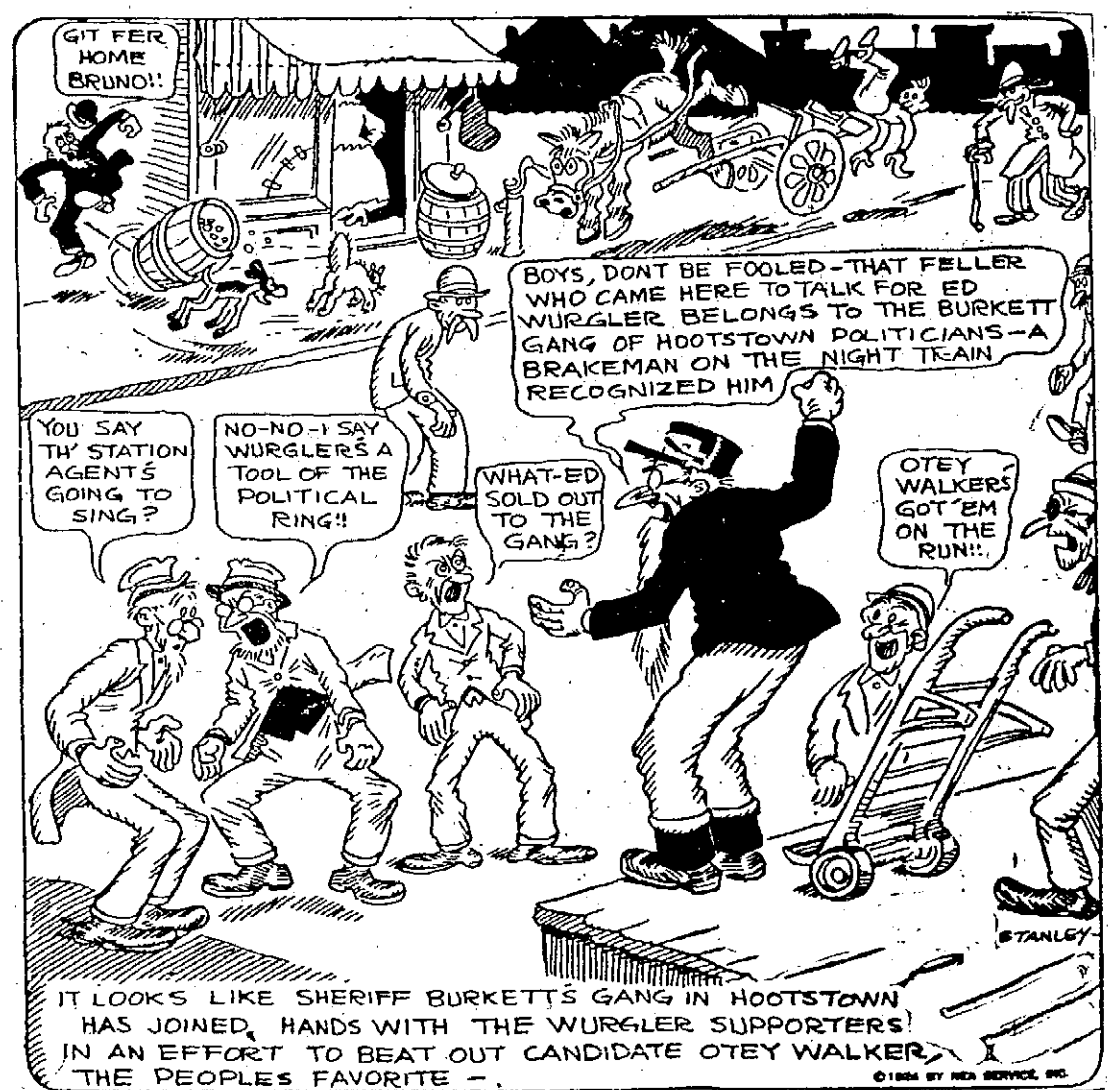

Columbus Circle is the busiest center of vehicle traffic in the world. Fifty thousand vehicles pass every day. In Piccadilly, London, the record is 30,000. Broadway and Fulton street is the busiest point of pedestrian traffic with 113,000 walking past in ten hours of a business day.

When he were a child every rainy day that came we thought the world was drenched. We know better now, know that, sometimes, a precipitation may be confined to even a block or two, but, just the same, a letter from California, stating a heavy rain fall on the first Sunday in October broke a long dry spell, makes us wonder if there are not times when the whole earth is wet. It may be recalled that on the same day an intensive Ohio drought was broken, and not so very long ago, the weather bureau gave out that on a certain day there was not a drop of rain in all the United States. If it be dry all over, occasionally, it is only fair it should be wet everywhere at one time once in awhile.

Doc Koko's KOLUM

October
The month of carnival of all the year.
When Nature lets the mild earth go its way.
The springtime holds her white and and purple dear;
October, lavish, flaunts them far and near;
The summer charity her reds doth lay
Like jewels on her costliest array;
October, scornful, burns them on a bier.
The winter hoards his pearls of frost in sign
Of kingdom; whiter pearls than winter know,
Or empress wore in Egypt's ancient line.
October feasting 'neath her dome of blue,
Drinks at a single draught, slow filtered through,
Sunshiny air as in a tingling wine.
